DOWNSTATE — Add state House candidate Russ McCabe to the list of Delaware politicians receiving endorsements from music legends this election cycle.

On Oct. 3, multiple Grammy award winners and Grand Ole Opry members Lorrie Morgan and Pam Tillis will perform in an acoustic concert outside Milton to benefit Mr. McCabe's race in the 36th District, which covers northeast Sussex County.

The event has been dubbed "The Autumn Afternoon." The concert will include wine and gourmet hors d'oeuvres and attendance will be limited.

"This is really a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to enjoy musical stars of this caliber in a beautiful private setting in our area," said Mr. McCabe, a Democrat.

"Country music is as much a part of Sussex County living as scrapple and slippery dumplings. I am grateful to both artists for including this benefit in their busy touring schedule, and for making themselves affordable for us. Their generosity toward our campaign is heartwarming."

Mr. McCabe joins GOP U.S. House primary winner Glen Urquhart (Pat Boone) and Michele Rollins (Rosanne Cash) as Delaware politicians who have picked up musical celebrity endorsements. Mr. McCabe will face Republican Harvey R. Kenton in the general election on Nov. 2.

Tickets for Mr. McCabe's event are $150 each and a limited number are available at www.russmccabe.org.
